

Evening Celebration of Indigenous Heritage

US Library
Tuesday, Dec. 3
from 6:00-8:00

Join us as we celebrate Indigenous heritage with a talk by Tobie Openshaw, featuring Indigenous treats and music. Tobie will share his 12-year journey connecting with elders and researchers globally to explore "little people myths" among Taiwan's Indigenous tribes. This lively discussion will cover persistence, ethics, connecting with storytellers, surprises, and the complexities of uncovering these myths.

Mr. Openshaw's research culminated in his book, Seeking the Koko Ta'ay: Investigating the Origins of Little People Myths in Taiwan and Beyond. Due to its academic pricing, books will not be sold on-site, but a signup sheet will be available for those interested in purchasing.
